My Dear Mr. Wharton,

Your letter enclosing a coin to be verified received. Just came back from vacation and have been trying to locate it. It evidently is not the coin for the tag. Will endeavor to find the correct attribution and advise you accordingly. We send herewith under separate cover a few Scotch coins and hope you will find something to add to your collection.

Thanking you for past favors, we are,

Yours very truly,

My Dear Mr. Wharton,

Referring to the small coin of Hiberno Danish origin I made a search for it trying to identify it positively but having no book on the copper coins of this period, I did not succeed. I then sent it to a collector who is very familiar with these coins and he writes me as follows:

"It is not unusual that you cannot place this piece, as the legend on it is quite unintelligible. However, It belongs in the Hiberno Danish series, and was issued about 1000 A. D. It is usually considered to be copied from the pennies of Aethelred II. While certain coins in this series can sometimes be attributed, most of them cannot and this belongs in the latter class."

We hope this will answer your question. However, if you are not satisfied we shall be glad to have your return it and we will credit it.

Trust the coins sent you a few days ago reached you in good order. With kindest regards, we are,

Yours very truly,

Hiberno Danish coin of Anlaf VI returned herewith.
